

To the future partners of Magic of Josiah:

It is with great pleasure that I write this letter about our long-standing partnership with Josiah Bunde, who has been a featured performer at many Kern County Library branches. As a public library that is committed to literacy and lifelong learning, we are always looking for performers who can engage families while supporting our mission, and Magic of Josiah has consistently exceeded expectations in every way.

From the start, communication about the booking process with Josiah has been incredibly smooth and reliable. He communicates clearly and efficiently, always confirming details well in advance and making sure that set-up logistics, timing, and space requirements are all handled with ease. He is proactive, thoughtful, and exceptionally professional at every stage.

One of the things we appreciate most is his dedication to customization. No matter the season or program theme, Josiah has tailored each show to fit our library's events and educational goals. He also regularly incorporates elements that promote literacy. He inspires the audience by sharing the story of his own experiences at the library and he encourages children to engage with books and reading in a playful, magical way.

Even more impressive is how each year, he brings something new. Rather than repeating the same show, Josiah continues to evolve and surprise us with original tricks, updated routines, and new layers of storytelling. Every performance feels fresher, more refined, and more magical than the last and it shows in our audience attendance and feedback. At every event, we've had crowds of over 100 attendees, and the room is completely captivated from beginning to end. The kids are glued to the performance, eyes wide with wonder and laughter. He has a rare talent for captivating audiences of all ages, from toddlers to grandparents. His humor is family-friendly, his pacing is dynamic, and his stage presence makes everyone feel included.

Josiah also goes above and beyond by providing us with custom promotional materials for his shows, which we've been able to use across social media and in-house flyers. These graphics have helped us boost attendance and excitement in advance, and his support in this area truly sets him apart.

Ultimately, what makes Josiah such a valued partner is not only his talent and showmanship, but his passion for enriching communities through joyful, meaningful experiences. He demonstrates the utmost professionalism, punctuality, and preparedness. His presence elevates our programming, and we consider him to be one of our most trusted partners. A partnership with Magic of Josiah offers your community quality, family-friendly events that inspire imagination, promote literacy, and leaves audiences delighted long after the final curtain.

Sincerely,
